PA in Belfast, UK

Directions by car/taxi

From Belfast City Airport – Approximately 15 minutes

When you come out of the airport you must follow the traffic flow and go left (you are actually driving away from Belfast at this point). Drive about 1/2 mile on this road and you will come to a junction. Do a 'U turn' at the junction to come back into town. Take this road for about 2 miles (this road is called the Sydenham bypass). Follow the signs for Newcastle. At the first set of lights turn left then bear right. Then bear left again following the signs for Newcastle. At the next set of lights go through the junction and this takes you to Ravenhill Road. After approximately 50 metres on this road turn right. Potters Quay building is directly in front of you.

From Belfast International Airport – approximately 40 minutes

When leaving the airport, follow signs for Belfast. Drive through Templepatrick and at the far end of town take the second left off the roundabout signed for the M2. Continue to follow signs for Belfast. When approaching Belfast follow signs for the M3. Take a left off the M3, signposted for Newcastle. After the first lights, bear right then immediately left, still following signs for Newcastle. At the next set of lights go through the junction and this takes you into Ravenhill Road. After approximately 50 metres on this road, turn right. Potters Quay building is directly in front of you.

Directions by public transport

From Belfast Central Train Station – approximately a 5 minute walk

When you come out the main door of the station turn right. You will pass the Maysfield Leisure Centre on your right. Walk over the bridge of the Lagan River. At the end of the bridge take the first right. PA Consulting is the red brick building on the corner and has 'Potters Quay' on the front wall. Buzz the intercom for Unit 2.

Parking

You can park directly outside the building on Ravenhill Road but it tends to be quite busy from 8.30am. Alternatively buzz the intercom (Unit 2) and someone will come down and let you into our underground car park.
